

SINCERITY OF PURPOSE A POWERFUL STIMULANT IN POPULARITY CONTESTS

Confidence of Contestants Will Secure Votes

People Are Popular Who Are Workers

WORDS FOR WORKERS.

The philosophy of "I'll win," will turn friends' pessimism to rosy optimism.

Lack nothing in confidence when you approach your friends to ask for their support. Doubtfulness in yourself will make your friends doubtful of you.

Every candidate should try and impress all whom they ask for votes,

Are you determined in the purpose you are pursuing? Are you really sincere in your attempt to get the trip to Yosemite and California, that the Bulletin is offering to five women? There is no more powerful stimulant for the success of your campaign than the sincerity of purpose you make evident to your friends and Bulletin readers, when you request their support. This sincerity must not be confused with anxiousness. There is a world of difference between the expressions: "I hope I shall win," and "I am going to try as hard as I can." Choose the last in expressing your desire to people to whom you speak. The word like a worker and the word "try" with its three little letters is the word of progress. It contains more power than a ten thousand word vocabulary of wishes.

The vote totals today show the success of the contestants who have worked. It is not too late today to begin to do what others have done. If you apply yourself with just a little more energy than do your opponents you will be the successful one.

There are at least at this time, a hundred people who have paid their subscriptions and have never been asked for the votes they are entitled to. The only way you can ascertain who these people are is by continuous and systematic canvass of your friends and Bulletin readers. Don't procrastinate in doing so—do it now. Look for these readers who have already paid their subscriptions and at the same time you will find many others who are waiting to make payments when they are asked for their votes. It takes little argument to induce friends to take the Bulletin. Almost every one you ask will do so, especially when they can at the same time help you secure this splendid summer trip.

It has been truly said that "fortune knocks but once at every door." Some people are so busy that they never hear the rap, which makes it necessary for Good Fortune to go out after them with a stuffed club and drag them in. Candidates, this is your opportunity. There is no easier way to secure such a trip except having it presented to you on a silver platter. That is virtually what your friends will do, for you, if you show you are sincere in your desire to take the trip. For a few weeks' work you are to be awarded six weeks of summer travel in California. This trip is that they intend to win—and what is more, you should be certain in your own mind that you will.

Effort applied energetically to any good purpose is always rewarded with good results. The contestants who apply their energies for the next few weeks to the purpose of securing votes in the Bulletin's Popularity Contest are certain to be rewarded with magnificent vote totals.

worth hundreds of dollars and is not that remuneration worth your while for a few weeks' effort, even if you devote all your time?

Special Notice.

Subscribers sending in subscriptions to the Bulletin must always mention the names of the contestants they wish to vote for, as all ballots are filled out in full before leaving office. You can hold back the ballots as long as you wish.

Every subscription payment made on or since March 7 entitles the payer to votes. Present receipts and votes will be issued. You vote for two candidates—a trip and a chaperone contestant. An equal number of votes, as given in the standing vote schedule, are issued for each contestant.

Club Offer Closes March 31.

Only one week more from today remains for candidates to take advantage of the offer of several thousand extra votes to contestants who turn in the equivalent of three daily yearly subscriptions before 5 p. m., March 31. This is one of the best club offers that will be made during the entire contest. The securing of the premium votes given is an easy matter, as it is not necessary that the three yearly subscriptions be turned in at one time. Every subscription payment made to the Bulletin is credited to the candidates for whom the votes are issued, and when the contest record shows that any candidate has an equivalent of three daily subscriptions, the extra votes are issued. Several of the candidates have secured subscription clubs, and there is not a candidate in the contest who could not get at least one before next Thursday if she would try.

How Votes Are Issued.

Each copy of the Bulletin will contain a coupon, which, when properly filled out, will entitle the holder to votes of the number specified. This number will vary from day to day. No advance announcement of the number of votes will be given. Votes will also be issued on paid subscriptions to the Evening and Weekly Bulletin in proportion to the length of time such subscriptions are paid in accordance with the schedule appearing below.

Nominations Not Closed.

There seems to be an impression that nominations are closed forevermore, so far as this contest is concerned. The nominations are not closed, and will not be until the end of the contest. You could, if you wish, nominate a candidate on the last day of the contest.

Each Morning Oil Magnate Seeks Divine Help in Aspirations.

NEW YORK, Mar. 14.—John D. Rockefeller's daily prayer repeated each morning at the beginning of the day's work is this, according to the Rev. R. P. Johnston, pastor of the Washington Heights Baptist church here:

"God keep me in the same mind, thoughts, the same ideals and aspirations."

Speaking on Rockefeller's religious doctrine, he said: "Mr. Rockefeller and his family begin each day with prayers. He is the noblest, gentlest and sweetest soul that I have ever met."

DEARBORN GIVES FINE ADDRESS

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
IS CROWDED

The Pacific Coast and Hawaii Will Be Chief Beneficiaries When the Panama Canal Route Is Opened.

The address delivered by G. S. Dearborn, president of the American Hawaiian Steamship Company, before the members of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon, was listened to with great interest. In introducing the speaker, J. F. Morgan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said: "One of the matters for discussion, and which is very important to the people of the Territory and in fact to all the people of the United States, is the present Coastwise law. I do not know what Mr. Dearborn is going to speak to you about this afternoon but whatever he says will be of the utmost interest."

Mr. Dearborn prefaced his address by saying: "On behalf of the American-Hawaiian S. S. Company I thank you for the honor conferred upon me by having been asked to address you this afternoon. I have some ideas about passenger traffic and about the tourist business. When I came out here eleven years ago, Honolulu was comparatively speaking a small place. The American-Hawaiian Company is the outgrowth of the old clipper line of vessels which have now become obsolete. When Hawaii was annexed we saw our opportunity and I came out here as a spy to look over the ground and see what prospects there were for starting a line of steamers. At that time I was forcibly impressed with what had been done as regards the sugar industry. I saw that here was a business end. But the question arose, How could we afford to send vessels unless there was ample freight both ways. Mr. Swanzy took me round the harbor, and so far as I could see there was absolutely nothing to warrant a line of steamers being put on."

"B. F. Dillingham, however, provided facilities, by building the Oahu railroad. Later, however, I made arrangements for incorporating a line of steamers to handle the sugar of Hawaii. We were able to sell $2,000,000 worth of bonds; we made a rate; built three steamers and have kept on increasing our service ever since."

Tehuantepec Route.
"When you go into any big business, you try to steal all the information you can, but generally end up by having to purchase a large portion of it. Having been through the pioneer end of the business, by sending ships around the Horn, we started the Tehuantepec route. The advantage of this new route over that of Panama is that the former is some 1200 miles shorter to New York than by the latter route, but transshipment has to be made."

"The islands were becoming insistent upon some adequate measures being taken whereby their sugar could be properly handled and put on the markets in the quickest time possible. I went to Mexico, and the Tehuantepec proposition was put before the Hawaiian sugar growers. The sugar people saw the advantage and the Tehuantepec route was opened."

"The Tehuantepec railway is a pet scheme of President Diaz. He gave a concession and a number of concessions were in the field at once. The Tehuantepec route is 192 miles long from Salina Cruz to Coatzacoacoas. It is a high class premier railway."

"You see these ships of ours coming in here every twelve days? Well, we have eight on the Atlantic, which all connect in what I term the grand triangular course. These steamers all run on schedule time; if one is delayed, the whole schedule is upset."

"For a long time our ships of 6000 tons arrived with freights of only 1000 tons, but we kept at it and today our ships not only handle immense cargoes but keep up a regular schedule."

"At home I have read newspaper articles about the Coastwise Laws. We appreciate conditions, the business of Honolulu has always been handled as a through service by our line of steamers. If the big ship had been eliminated you would have had ships of smaller tonnage. The Nevada and Nebraska were specially built for this service. There is such a preponderance of sugar in comparison to the amount of freight down that it is very difficult to get full cargoes to this port."

"And now as regards the passenger traffic. Four years ago we submitted a proposition to the Merchants' Association in reference to accommodation for passengers. About three years ago we purchased the Maine and the Missouri from the Atlantic Transport Company. We spent $10,000 in having plans drawn up for passenger accommodations on these vessels, but, as it was estimated that at least some $300,000 would be required to make the necessary alterations, we decided that the vessels were too slow to prove popular as passenger boats."

"We are carrying today about one-fifth of the sugar from these islands to San Francisco. We are building a new ship to be christened the 'Honolulu' or 'Honolulan', whichever name is thought to be the right one. This vessel will be ready in a few months. It will have accommodations for forty-five passengers, and will be of a high standard and will cost about $500,000. We have done all that is possible to put on a good service, and this extra passenger service will cost us at least $125,000. The Matson Navigation Company and Captain Matson are to be congratulated for their energy and courage in providing the fine service which they now offer you."

More Hotels Needed.
"The community wants this extra passenger service, but I have remarked that your hotels are full, and I do not know where you will put the
